

Germany

Germany

Click on a picture to find out more.

Culture

Food

School

Next

Culture

The national flag of Germany is a tricolour of black, red and gold.

They are the national colours of Germany and represent unity and freedom.

Culture

Official Language: German

Capital City: Berlin

Landmarks: Berliner Fernsehturm

Population: 81.8 million

Major Religion: Christianity followed by Islam, Buddhism and Judaism.

Back

Food

German cuisine is most famous for its Bratwurst (sausages) and cheese.

Meals of the day in German are called:

Frühstück – breakfast

Mittagessen – lunch

Abendessen or Abendbrot – dinner

Back

School

The German education system is slightly different in each state as they decide their own policies.

The compulsory school age is 6.

Secondary schools in Germany are split in to 5 different types, each one with slightly different exams and achievements.

Back

Rivers and Mountains

The main rivers: The main rivers in Germany are the Rhine, the Elbe and the Danube

The highest mountains: The Zugspitze, Hochwanner and Watzmann

Photo courtesy of Stiller Beobachter (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

Next

Important Cities

Click on the city to find out more.

Next

Berlin

- Berlin is Germany's capital city and also its largest.
- Over 3.5 million people live in Berlin.
- It is a vibrant, multi-cultural city that attracts thousands of tourists every year.
- Famously, during the Cold War, the Berlin Wall was built. The wall was erected to stop those people who were living in communist East Berlin from fleeing to the democratic West Berlin. Families were separated for years by the wall until it was finally demolished on 8th November, 1989.

Photo courtesy of EuroVizion (@flickr.com)
granted under creative commons licence - attribution

Hamburg

- Hamburg is Germany's second largest city.
- 1.7 million people live in Hamburg.
- 14% of Hamburg is made up of green spaces, parks and recreation areas.
- There are two lakes in the middle of Hamburg.

Photo courtesy of Bjoern Schwarz (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

- Hamburg has the world's first zoo with no cages!

Munich

Photo courtesy of Bjoern Schwarz (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

- Munich is Germany's third largest city.
- 1.4 million people live in Munich.
- Over six million people visit Munich every year for a celebration called Oktoberfest.

- Munich has the world's largest museum of science and technology

Frankfurt

- Frankfurt is home to the world's third biggest airport, with around 56 million visitors a year.
- Frankfurt is on the Main river.

- A Frankfurter is a name for a hot dog, or sausage, because they are said to have come from the city.

Dusseldorf

Photo courtesy of Marco (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons license by attribution

- Dusseldorf is on the River Rhine.
- The custom of turning cartwheels is said to have come from Dusseldorf!
- Dusseldorf has a Carnival every year in February.
- Dusseldorf has a famous academy of fine arts which has produced many famous artists.

Dresden

Photo courtesy of Max A. (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

- Dresden is so beautiful that it has the nickname 'jewel box'.
- Toothpaste was invented in Dresden.
- Dresden is a city of music with a famous Opera House and Philharmonic Orchestra.

Attractions for Visitors

There are many famous tourist attractions in Germany.
Click on the attraction to find out more.

Brandenburg Tor

Neuschwanstein Castle

Fairy Tale Route

Photo courtesy of Tor2-dydcheung (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

Photo courtesy of Infinite Ache (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

Next

Brandenburg Tor

Click on the +s to find out more

- The gate represents unity and freedom for the German people.

Neuschwanstein Castle

Click on the +s to find out more

- Fourteen carpenters worked for four years to make the woodwork in the bedroom

Fairy Tale Route

Click on the +s to find out more

Photo courtesy of Roger W (@flickr.com) - granted under creative commons licence - attribution

- The Fairy Tales Route was created in 1975. who wrote many famous fairytales. Castle and the City of Bremen which is famous for the story of the Musicians of Bremen.

